
Michael Pina

Executive Vice President

Michael Pina is a director of admission at the University of Richmond. He oversees the diversity recruitment and outreach, international, and off-campus programming teams. He works closely with other senior leaders to develop strategies and tactics to attract, recruit, and enroll a talented and diverse student body, including recruiting first-generation college students and scholars affiliated with community-based organization partners.

Michael began his career in higher education as an assistant director and coordinator of multicultural recruitment at Trinity College in Hartford, CT. During that time, he was also a member of NACAC, NEACAC, and NECBAC. He has served two terms as a NEACAC Assembly Delegate from both sides of the desk, once in the 1990s and again in the early 2000s and had one stint as the membership committee chair. He has also served as a Common Application Board of Directors member. Michael currently serves on the board of Partnership for the Future which helps high-potential high school students from challenging circumstances in the greater Richmond area transition to college.

He earned his B.A. in philosophy at Trinity College and his J.D. from Boston College Law School.
